A GUIDE TO CLOTH NAPPIES

THEY ARE JUST LIKE A DISPOSABLE BUT WASHABLE

Today cloth nappies look exactly like a disposable but the only difference is that you throw them in the washing machine instead of the rubbish bin. There is no preparation, no folding and no soaking. The nappy is often one piece and you just pop it on the baby. Our modern washing machines and washing products do all of the work for us so they don't need soaking or bleaching. Fabric technology has come a long way too so the nappies can perform as well, if not better than a disposable nappy

WHY CHOOSE REUSABLE NAPPIES

Reusing nappies will save you money, particularly if nappies are treated with care and can then be used for successive children. Reusable nappies are chemical free, so there are no toxins around the reproductive area. Reusable nappies are more environmentally friendly, especially if you choose organic cotton nappies. This ensures production of the nappies has met very strict criteria and no unnecessary chemicals have been used at any stage of production and the cotton is left in a soft and absorbent state.
